BOYS GO TO REFORMATORY

Lonzo Sent On to Grand Jury on Charge of Receiving Stolen Goods.

In the arrest of "Professor" Wilbur R. Lonzo, erstwhile "Professor Lamason." of Charleston, W. Va., who was held for the grand jury yesterday morning when arraigned before Justice Crutchfield in Poice Court for receiving stolen goods, the police believe they have uncovered a clever "fence" who has been operating a profitable, though illegitimate business through a gang of young thieves.

The operations of the four white boys are assuming large proportions. Three of the boys, Jesse Parker, fitteen years old, and Harvey Farley, sixteen years old, and Harvey Farley, sixteen years old, were committed to the Laurel Reformatory several days ago, and young Beckner, whose case was continued until yesterday morning, was sent to join his companions by Justice Crutchfield in the Juvenile Court. The boys freely confessed their guilt, and their evidence brought about the professor's arrest.

Lonzo, who was living at 510 East Marshall Street, and ostensibly practicing the fine art of palmistry, was arrested on Tuesday by Detectives Wiltshire and Gentry on the charge of receiving a quantity of jewelry from the boys which he knew had been stolen from Russell E, Stiff, a traveling salesman, who lives in the Virginia Apartments. Jesse Parker testified unhesitatingly that he stole the property and had sold the watch to the professor for $5.50. The boy's haul from Shiff included a $40 watch, a chain valued at $50, a $90 diamond charm, amounting in all to $150.

Their Share Was Provided For at Time of Mary Leiter's Marriage.

ISpecial Cable to The Times-Dispatch 1 London, March 20.—The publication of the details of the will of Mrs. Levt Leiter, who died recently in Washington, aroused considerable metals.

A close friend of the Curzon family told the correspondent to-night that the details of Mrs. Leiter's will were known to the Curzon family long ago, and that they had approved of these provisions.

It is true that under the will Lady Suffolk and Joseph Leiter get a bigger share by waiting until their mother's death than Lady Curzon did under the marriage settlement, but "cash down" was imperative at the time of Mary Leiter's wedding.

Another point is that, during her married life, Lady Curzon had received great financial help from her parents, notably during the time her husband was Viceroy of India, as that position required the spending of lots of money, but brought in return its reward to the spending of lots of money, but brought in return its reward to the spending of lots of money, but brought in return its reward to the content of the spending of lots of money, but brought in return its reward to the content of the BUSINESS PEOPLE WANT ANNEXATION Pass Resolution Favoring Immediate Enlargement of Territory Along Broad Lines.

HOW SUBURBANITES FEEL

Willing to Annex on Equitable Terms, but Will Not Wait for Improvements.

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Business Men's Club that Richmond needs immediate annexation along broad lines, and that a committee be appointed by the president to appear before the Council Committee on Annexation".

This resolution was adopted at the close of a meeting of the Business Men's Club yesterday, when the reasons and methods of annexation were discussed in a series of seven-minute speeches, and citizens of Richmond suburbs presented the opinions on the question prevailing in their communities. These speeches were especially interesting as expressing the attitude which Richmond will have to meet in her efforts to expect which Richmond will have to meet in her efforts to expand.

G. W. Bahlke, Mayor of Highland Park, stated that he believed the general sentiment in that community to be in favor of annexation, since most of the citizens had business and other interests in Richmond. He asserted, however, that unless Richmond took immediate steps to annex Highland Park, and provide it with the necessary improvements, Highland Park will certainly take measures to obtain its own improvements, even though it has to pay a higher rate of interest has to pay a higher rate of interest than Richmond would have to pay. The Town Council is now contemplat-ing a $50,090 bond issue to that end.

ing a $5,000 bond issue to that end, he said,
"Personally, I am willing to lose my job as Mayor in order to become a part of the city," said Mr. Bahlke, "but part of the city," said Mr. Bahlke, "but if Richmond wants to obtain Highland Park, it will have to get busy now." Much the same attitude was taken by John Garland Pollard, Mayor of Ginter Park, who said that that suburb would ask only equitable terms in becoming a part of the city.

The nature of those terms was made plain by C. B. Garnett, another citizen of Ginter Park, who pointed out that there was no good approach from that of Ginter Park, who pointed out that there was no good approach from that suburb to the city. The car line which reaches First Street is exceedingly round-about, so that the trip requires twenty-nine minutes, while by the Richmond and Chesapeake Bay route the citizens are compelled to pay a double fare and the car runs only once an hour.

He asserted that Ginter Park would bring Richmond nearly $2,000,000 worth of property, and he wanted to know what the suburb would get in exchange what the suburb would get in exchange if not an adequate means of access to the city. He pointed out that St. Louis, Chicago and all other modern growing cities are laying out great boulevards to connect the heart of the citics with the outlying districts.

Dr. R. H. Pitt spoke for Barton Heights, saying that he believed the sentiment in that community to be overwhelmingly in favor of annexation. All the interests of the citizens, he said, are centred in Richmond, and yet they are cut off from citizenship here and from participation in municipal affairs.

"We must get behind the Council," he said. "We have got to have a case that we can prove in court, and public opinion back of it, before we can carry out our plans."

Why Haste is Necessary.

John C. Easley set forth the reasons why Richmond should take immediate steps toward annexation, emphasizing the fact that the larger suburbs are issuing bonds at higher rates than the the fact that the larger suburbs are issuing bonds at higher rates than the city would have to pay, and which the city will have to take over eventually. He stated that, in his opinion, the suburbs were rather recibless in their bond issues for that reason.

Mr. Easley also spoke of the necessity of safeguarding the health of the city, since many of the smaller outlying districts have improper sewer systems, and have inadequate water systems, while the line between them and the city is only imaginary.

Regarded by Farmers in Monterey Section as Most Satisfactory.

Monterey, Va., March 20.—The 1913 maple sugar season is just closing, and it is regarded by farmers as most successful and satisfactory. Since the season opened frequent and more of less radical changes in the weather have contributed to the success and expedited the work. Reports from sugarmakers all over the country are to the effect that the sap was unusually sweet, and some beautiful specimens of the product—both sugar and syrug—have been put on the market. Many persons are availing themselves of the parcel post system for sending small quantities of sugar to all parts of the country, and Uncle Sam has been called upon to carry hundreds of pounds of this unique product, not so much for commercial purposes, but to absent friends and acquaintances who, having once tasted this rare confection, never lose a relish for it. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Blacksburg, Va., March 20.—F. H. LaBaume, industrial agent of the Norfolk and Western Railroad, made an address before the members of the Blacksburg Board of Trade Monday night in the school building. Mr. LaBaume spoke on the general subject of "Industrial Development," particularly as it applies to towns that are situated in a rich agricultural section as Blacksburg is, and took occasion to emphasize the things that are absolutely essential to the growth of even the smallest village. He said the most important of these were good roads in the adjacent country, good streets, a modern school building and sufficient street lights. Departing from the usual lines followed by those who are invited to address a gathering of people in a community, Mr. LaBaume said frankly that he thought the roads around Blacksburg, the public school building in which he was speaking and the lighting system in the town were all in need of considerable improvement, and that its development as a place of residence or location for industries would be slow until these deficiencies were supplied.

Mrs. Fitzhugh when arraigned yesterday told such strangely conflicting stories that the magistrate ordered her remanded for further investigation, and fixed the bail at $1,000. Asked to explain her possession of a gold bag, identified as belonging to Mrs. Fiske, she said that it had been substituted for hers while she was at lunch at the Wardorf. A list of different sums of money, complied by days, that was found in her purse was. Mrs. Northrup claimed, made up by the order of a strange man who told her what sum to put down each day.

Before going to the hospital to-day the young woman reiterated her statement that she was the wife of Albert S. Northrup, of Washington lawyer, had been acting as her husband's agent in remitting her allowance to her. She also stated that the name of her first husband was Fitzhugh Randolph, instead of Itandolph Fitzhugh.

"If Joseph Solomon says that I am not the wife of Albert S. Northrup," she said to-day, "he tells an untruth, I did not get a divorce from my husband, as I did not want to expose the terrible reason why I left him. He agreed to send me a certain sum each week, and did so at first, sometimes $50 and sometimes $75. Joseph Solomon remitted this money to me."
